

Confusing Dream

I had the strangest dream last night: a Zoom meeting with some of our mathematical heroes. Luckily I was able to take a screenshot before waking up! They look utterly confused by the situation, though I note they all have one extraordinary feature.

They were discussing the discovery of a new lattice path. I managed to copy it there:

<https://00.00/00000000>